Phythian's main thesis in Arming Iraq is very familiar: the United States and the United Kingdom built Saddam's war machine and then conspired to cover-up the tracks when it became too embarrassing. There is voluminous evidence on the public record, much of which Phythian has reviewed, to document the U.S. and British roles in building up Saddam's war machine.

By: John King, March 2003. What follows is an accurate chronology of United States involvement in the arming of Iraq during the Iraq-Iran war 1980-88. It is a powerful indictment of the president Bush administration attempt to sell war as a component of his war on terrorism. It reveals US ambitions in Iraq to be just another chapter in the attempt to regain a foothold in the Mideast following the fall of the Shah of Iran.

"The Bush administration deliberately, not inadvertently, helped to arm Iraq by allowing U.S. technology to be shipped to Iraqi military and to Iraqi defense factories . . . Throughout the course of the Bush administration, U.S. and foreign firms were granted export licenses to ship U.S. technology directly to Iraqi weapons facilities despite ample evidence showing that these factories were producing weapons."
