Sun Diamond, poem by ChristopherErick

The bright sun rises above the earth like a sparkling jewel. Shines its light with such radiance and warms the air. Then sets in the west to make a way for the luminous moon. That casts its brilliant shadows all through the night. Her heavenly glow is hidden so that the bright stars can shine.

Diamonds In The Sky Poem by Patricia Grantham - Poem Hunter

The December sun doesn't melt winter diamonds, they sparkle iridescent in the downhill skiers' fine snow powder, and are priceless on heavy laden tree branches. So valuable are they to Old Man Winter, they adorn St. Nick's long snowy beard, and bejewel the child Snow Queen's tiara.

A diamante – pronounced dee-uh-MAHN-tay – is an unrhymed seven-line poem. The beginning and ending lines are the shortest, while the lines in the middle are longer, giving diamante poems a diamond shape. "Diamante" is the Italian word for diamond, so this poetic form is named for this diamond shape.

"I want to read this poem to you at a time like this because I'm a bitch. I'm a rock. Go ahead and sear me. I won't budge an inch because I'm a rock. Go ahead and beat me up. I'm a solid rock. Go ahead and leave me in the darkness. I'm a rock that will shine all alone. I don't break, ash, nor decay as I go against nature's way. I survive. I'm ...

Eve is created through his image and likeness, love is truly lifes purpose for what more can catch a womans attention but a diamond? Diamond is pure carbon, deposited drops of sunlight. A diamond is the last and highest of Gods mineral formation, as a woman is the last and highest of Gods creation."
